RELATIVES WERE IN GRAVE DANGER

Fire in Flats in Cincinnati Destroyed
Home of Col. E. H. Wolfe's
Sisters

AN EXPLOSION FOLLOWED

Both Are Former Residents Here and
Are Well Known—Occurred
Sunday Morning.

Col. E. H. Wolfe received word this morning that the home of his sisters, Mrs. Mattie Moore and Mrs. Frances Davis in Cincinnati had been destroyed by fire and that they had a narrow escape from death. Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Davis are both well known here and have visited here a number of times. Mrs. Davis resides with the Moore family. They are former residents of this city and their friends and relatives were glad to hear that they escaped without injury.

The fire occurred yesterday morning and was followed by an explosion. One fireman was seriously injured and others slightly hurt. The women were rescued only by heroic work of firemen and tenants in the building. The Cincinnati Enquirer of this morning contained the following concerning the blaze:

Because of the peculiar nature of the blaze, which affected three of the connected flats at Nos. 2623, 2625, 2627, 2629, and 2631 Kemper lane, the police and State Fire Marshals started a thorough investigation.

The flames were discovered by Jacob Roth and appeared to be in the wall between his flat at 2629 Kemper lane and the apartment of William Moore, a clerk, employed by the C. N. O. and T. P. railroad. Moore's flat is at the eastern end of the building and was demolished, as was the home of Jacob Roth.

Roth detected the odor of smoke and sent in a still alarm to the fire department. He had hardly finished his call for help when there was an explosion which shook the entire house causing walls to fall in and breaking windows. Mrs. Francis Davis, who resides with the Moore family, was reading on the second floor of the house and detected the odor of smoke at about the same time. She called to Misses Jennie and Mattie Moore, who were in the kitchen on the first floor, asking if anything was burning. Almost simultaneously with her question the explosion occurred and she was hurled to the floor, but luckily escaped injury.

As soon as the flames were extinguished the police and firemen searched the ruins in order to ascertain the direct cause of the fire which was followed so closely by the explosion. One of the tenants claimed that he had noticed smoke for many hours and before retiring Saturday night had made a search of his flat to try to locate the fire. The opinion of the police is that the fire was started by

WATSON'S BROTHER DIES

Relative of Former Representative
Expires in Winchester.

William F. Watson, 56 years old, a prominent resident of Winchester and well known throughout that county, is dead at his home there after an extended illness. He was a brother of former Representative James E. Watson of this city, and father-in-law of Jerry A. Matthews, a prominent politician of Washington. Mr. Watson was formerly a rural route carrier out of the Winchester postoffice. The widow, mother, three daughters and three brothers survive.

a defective flue, but they are mystified as to where the gas was pocketed. The explosion was in Roth's flat and appeared to be in the dining room.

Mrs. Francis Davis, who was hurled from her chair in the home of William Moore, said: "I was reading a book and failed to notice the smoke that was rapidly filling my room. When I realized the predicament that I was in I called to my sisters down stairs, asking them if anything was burning in the kitchen. Later I returned to my room and resumed my reading, thinking that the smoke was from the kitchen. Before I realized it I was almost suffocated, and as I started to rise from my chair there was a terrific explosion which hurled me to the floor. For a minute I was stunned and did not know what had happened, but when the plaster and walls started to crumble I realized the danger that I was in and tried to escape. As I left the room a large chandelier fell and the room quickly filled with flames.

SLAYER OF SCOTT TARPLEE INDICTED

True Bill is Returned by Grand Jury at Birmingham, Ala., Against Policeman Buckalew.

NEWS RECEIVED HERE TODAY

Policeman Buckalew of Birmingham, Ala., who shot and killed Scott Tarplee, formerly of this city, and son of James Tarplee of Rushville, December 22, at Birmingham, after a slight altercation, was charged with murder in an indictment returned by the grand jury there Friday, according to word received today by Mr. Tarplee from his son's widow. She will write particulars of the advancement in the case in a few days.

It will be remembered Scott Tarplee was shot down in cold blood by the policeman after the officer was called to the Tarplee home by neighbors to quell an alleged disturbance. Testimony at the coroner's inquest was to the effect that Tarplee and his family were very highly respected, and that he was a law abiding citizen. Immediately upon receiving news of the murder, James Tarplee went to Birmingham. He employed a detective to assist in the prosecution. Recently he received word the principal prosecuting witness, a neighbor of his son's family, had disappeared suddenly and mysteriously.

Will Not Come up Until Attorney Returns.

The February term of the Rush circuit court opened this morning about eleven o'clock. The usual number of civil cases which had been settled before the opening of court, were dismissed and scratched off the docket. No action was taken on any criminal cases on this term.

The hearing on the injunction asked by Basil Seward against the board of commissioners and the sheriff was set down for today. It was postponed indefinitely until Donald Smith attorney for the plaintiff, returns. A temporary restraining order was issued allowing Seward's saloon to remain open.

This afternoon the court heard arguments on several motions and demurrers, and the testimony of Joseph Barber, who was cited to show cause why he does not turn over certain property to Riley C. Cox, administrator of the estate of Sarah Ellen Barber. Barber alleged this property was given him by his mother, deceased.

The troubles of the Walker brothers who have been in court four times recently as a result of trouble over the operation of a farm in Union township in partnership, were due to be aired in circuit court this afternoon. The receivership and accounting suit was to be heard, but never came up.

The case of James W. Anderson against the Big Four for $250 damages was dismissed and the costs adjudged against the plaintiff.

The accounting and receiver suit of George Benjamin F., Stephen T. and Alfred D. Hitz against Mary C. Palman, Joseph Scaletta and Samuel Scaletta was dismissed by agreement, the defendants to pay the costs.

The proceedings supplementary which were brought by the Security Life Insurance Company of America against Morris M. Winship, Roy H. Jones, the Rushville National bank and Charles W. Mouch of Newcastle a few days ago were dismissed and the costs paid.

A demurrer was filed to the complaint in the $1,000 damage suit of F. A. Knecht vs. T. B. Scott.

The suit on note for $550 brought by Lafayette Johnson against Bebout & Waltemire was dismissed and the costs paid.

The note suit of Polly Ann Gray against Flora and Frank C. Gray for $1,550 was dismissed at the cost of the defendant, Flora Gray.

The case of William C. Johnson vs. William Hall on a note, demanding $100 was dismissed at the defendant's cost.

The case of the State on the relation of Mary Fears against William Archey has been sent to the circuit court from Squire Kratzer's court and set down for trial. A serious charge is lodged against the defendant.

BELIEVE FRANK WAS SNUBBED

Friends of Lieutenant Governor Hall
Are Angry Because he Was Slighted at Banquet.

SITS IN CONSPICUOUS PLACE

But Local Politician is Ignored Totally at Annual Gathering of Democratic Editors.

Friends of, Lieutenant Governor Frank J. Hall of Rushville are indignant because they say, Mr. Hall was snubbed and ignored at the banquet of the Democratic Editorial Association at the Denison hotel last week, when he was not asked to make a speech, says the Indianapolis News today. Mr. Hall is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, and it is said that he will come into the State convention with a solid delegation from Rush county and some other votes from the Sixth district. This fact, alone, it is pointed out by his friends would entitle him to the same consideration that is given to other candidates. In addition he is lieutenant governor of the State and this, it is said, also should have given him recognition.

But such recognition, it is said, was not given. Speeches were made by Governor Marshall, Samuel M. Ralston, a candidate for the nomination for governor; Albert J. Venema, representing John W. Boehne, candidate for the nomination for governor, who was unable to attend the banquet; and Thomas Taggart. During all of this time Lieutenant Governor Hall sat in a "conspicuous place" at the banquet table, but he was not called on for a speech, although he also is a candidate for the governorship.

Just why or how this happened no one has attempted to explain.

"It looks strange that the lieutenant governor of the State should be slighted in this manner," said one of his friends. "If the candidates for governor were to be heard he should have had a hearing along with the have had a hearing along with the friends to sit by and see him ignored. They probably will resent the snub."

DISMISS ROAD PETITION

Commissioners Find 32 More Remonstrators Than Petitioners.

The county board of commissioners held their regular monthly meeting today. The petition of John C. Blackledge and others for a highway in Rushville township was dismissed. Sixty-two names were added to the petition while there were ninety-four signature on the remonstrance which was filed. Several claims were allowed by the board.

MACHINE DAMAGED.

Connersville News: While returning from making a call Friday night, Dr. Paxton of Glenwood, met with an accident, which proved a narrow escape for him. In some manner as he came to a large bridge abutment at Bunkerhill, the auto went backward over the abutment, which is about 25 or 30 feet high. Dr. Paxton escaped any injuries but the machine was damaged badly.

SPEAKERS IN TWO PULPITS PLEAD FOR THE BOYS OF TODAY

HOLY GRAIL IN PLACE OF Y. M. C. A.

The Rev. Perry Powell, Founder of Organization, Offers Suggestion
For Long Needed Want.

ADDRESSES THE YOUNG PEOPLE

Shows That Boys Should Have Place
For Training Body, Mind and Spirit.

The small crowd of young people that braved the cold last night and heard the Rev. Perry E. Powell at the First Presbyterian church was amply repaid and it is to be regretted that the weather was such as to keep a number away, because the speaker gave a message of vital importance to this city. The need of a Y. M. C. A. has long been felt here and the Rev. Mr. Powell advocated the establishment of a chapter of the Holy Grail in the churches here as a substitute for a Y. M. C. A.

The Rev. Perry E. Powell is the founder and Supreme Merlin of the Knights of the Holy Grail and has made a special study of this line of work. The Holy Grail is a boys' club on the order of the Y. M. C. A. and is maintained by the church. In other words it is the Y. M. C. A. put under the direction of the church and becomes a part of the institution. Club rooms, reading rooms, and gymnasium work are the features. In a city the size of Rushville which can not support a Y. M. C. A. it is maintained that the Knights of the Holy Grail acts for the same purpose and does an unlimited amount of good among the young people.

"The Secret of the Airship" was the subject of the address. It was pointed out that the aviator finds the air currents more even and steady the higher he goes. An airship flying at an altitude of five miles is not subjected to the dangers of one at five hundred feet because the air currents are steady and reliable. In applying this to life the speaker said there were opposing currents and the higher we go the easier we find sailing. The law of the aviator is the same as the law of life. The Rev. Mr. Powell's advice to the young people was for them to raise their planes and go higher.

The speaker applied the sides of the Y. M. C. A. triangle to human life. The emblem of the Y. M. C. A. is a triangle, the sides of which stand for the body, the mind and the spirit. "There are also three sides of the human life," said the Rev. Mr. Powell, "and we must work on the three sides at about the same time. In speaking of the body there immediately comes to the mind the gymnasium. The difference between a hospital and a gymnasium is that a hospital is a place to take sick people and cure them while a gymnasium is a place to take well people and keep them well."

According to the speaker, the body must be educated as to proper walking and sitting. "The government figures show," said Dr. Powell, "that fourteen out of ninety men pass the examination for the navy. Fifty girls out of every one hundred do not know how to use their lungs. The body will respond if given proper treatment. We are losing in civilization instead of gaining. We pride ourselves in our automobiles. They are a fine thing and I never miss an opportunity to take a ride, but think

Frank Clark of Denver Says he Will Get Over it, in Speech to Parents.

TAKE INTEREST IN SAVAGES

Man Who is in Business Just to Pay Expenses Touches on Men's Movement.

Frank Clark, a business man of Denver, Colorado, who has an avocation merely to pay expenses and who is engaged in the work of extending the kingdom of Jesus Christ, spoke interestingly to parents on the boy phase of the Men and Religion Forward Movement at the Main Street Christian church last night. The crowd was small due to the severe cold, but it was a highly interested one, and never grew restless even though the address was over an hour long.

Mr. Clark set out to explain what the Movement proposes to do for the boys of the United States and he said he was just beginning to grasp an idea of what it means after he had been through eight day campaigns in two cities. He declared the Movement is not a revival, not a religious fever, but that it proposes to bring to us what we as men have left unsought. He asserted that the church does nothing more than trickles against the saloon, prostitution and other common social evils instead of rolling up against them like the ocean waves.

Mr. Clark wondered if the members of churches today are living richly, if God approves, and if their faith is strong enough in these days of high thinking and high education and high browism. He declared faith is not a question for argument. He said religion is not to be reasoned, yet it is the most reasonable thing in the world.

In this age of trusts, combinations and consequent probes, the speaker said, the money trusts had been discovered and that it was to be investigated. He said people worship at the shrine of money and trample other things under foot. He declared the probes and investigations are only the signs of the times that is evident on every hand, the unrest in social and industrial life which is apparent.

Mr. Clark said the Men and Religion Forward Movement is not spasmodic, but men are rising up and are staying with it. He referred to the congress which will be held in New York soon, which will be attended by 3,000 delegates, and at which the fruits of the campaign all over the country will be gathered up.

Mr. Clark alluded briefly to the six purposes of the Movement as follows: Evangelism, Bible study, missions, community extension, social service and boys' work. It was the last which he emphasized.

"It is the common impression," said Mr. Clark, "that boys don't amount to much anyway and let them go. If we want to perpetuate the gospel of Jesus Christ we've got to work on the boys. Seventy-four per cent of boys in the United States leave the Sunday school in their teens, according to statistics, and eighty per cent leave Sunday school between the ages of twelve and fourteen. Seventy per cent of the inmates in the penal institutions of the United States are

Making of Wills Is Becoming a Lost Art

Is the making of wills becoming a lost art? Within the last few years, it is said, there has been a growing tendency on the part of persons of property to leave the worldly goods to be divided according to law. The condition is apparent in Rush county as elsewhere. It is not that there are fewer wills being made, but that more estates are being left to be settled by administrators or administrators.

Many reasons for this are advanced by attorneys. The principal one is that there is a growing distrust in the will as an iron-clad document. The person making a will does not like to think that after he or she has passed away, the legal heirs will be squabbling over the estate, trying to prove that the testator was of unsound mind or was unduly influenced. In too many instances, it is said, the jury is prone to disregard the actual law of the case and to change matters as the jurors would have done had they been making the will. In this manner the apparent personal interests of the contestants take precedence over the law.

There are, of course, some cases where the maker of the will was of unsound mind or was unduly influenced and all of these things have led to the general idea that a will is often a ticklish proposition and that the estate may be spent in contest.

Charles Dickens, in one of his greatest novels, "Bleak House," gives a notorious example of settling an estate as practiced in England at that time. It was the case of Jarndyce against Jarndyce, and every reader of the great novelist will remember the story well. It was written as an attack on the English chancery courts of the period, and, of course, is not applicable to present day conditions, although it is a very interesting example of a contested estate.

Another reason given is that the settling of an estate by the process of the law is always much more rapid than by will. Under the Indiana statute no estate can be settled under a year. Creditors are given that much of time to file claims against the estate. The reason for that law is that as the heirs did not contract the debts they certainly cannot be held for the debts. Neither can debts be collected from a dead man. Therefore the court appoints a person to stand in the stead of the dead man and pay his obligation within a year.

No estate can be settled out of court. That is, no estate can outside the court process, be settled so debts cannot be collected from it. Occasionally the heirs agree and request the court that an estate be settled without the appointment of an administrator. Under such an arrangement the heirs get the property much more quickly, but at any time creditors may appear in court and have an administrator appointed to collect debts, owed by the deceased.

GLASS WORKERS WILL RENEW OCCUPATION

Long Strike in Indiana Plants Being Adjusted.

Marion, Ind., Feb. 5.—There is good reason to believe, with the announcement that the bottle factory of the Upland Glass company will be placed in operation within the next few days, that the backbone of a strike that has affected nine independent glass factories in Indiana cities has been broken. The Upland factory has been closed since last August, when blowers quit work because of wage reductions.

The strike spread to other cities, including Fairmount, Winchester, Shirley and Summitville. The plant of the Bell Bottle company at Fairmount has been in operation for several weeks, but no effort has been made to start the Upland plant until now. The manager of the factory posted notices today to the effect that all former employees may return to their occupations at the wage scale effective at the time of the strike. The officials hope to have 200 men at work by March 1.

The manager of the Fairmount factory notified his employees that the company had voluntarily increased their wages, the advance being a substantial one. It is said that the settlement of the strike at Upland will result in similar settlements at Shirley and Winchester in a short time.

TOO MUCH FOR HIM

Surprise at Hearing Long Silent Wife Killed Kentuckian.

Maysville, Ky., Feb. 5.—To have lived together under the same roof for twenty-five years without speaking to his wife, and then to die of heart failure when she broke the silence, was the fate of Louis Roser of this city.

Seated at the dinner table his wife, for the first time in more than a score of years, broke the silence by asking her husband to have a cup of coffee. He replied:

"I believe I will," and with these words fell back in his chair, stricken with heart trouble. A few hours later he died.

Jury at Frankfort Punishes a Blind Tiger Druggist.

Frankfort, Ind., Feb. 5.—The blind tiger was hit a hard blow when the jurors who had for several days been hearing the evidence in the state case against David W. Rigrish, proprietor of a drug store, gave him a fine of $500 and five months in jail.

Rigrish was prosecuted under the blind tiger act, and the fine is the limit prescribed by law. The statute fixes the limit of imprisonment to six months. Evidence showed that Rigrish and his employees had sold 10,000 quarts of whisky illegally.

Stepped in Front of Engine. Pinehurst, N. C., Feb. 5.—Miss Elsie Little, the noted New York tennis player, who was here for the tennis tournament, was struck and instantly killed by a train. She had walked to the station with a party of friends and started to cross the track just ahead of an engine which was backing in. Apparently Miss Little was unconscious of its approach. Someone shouted a warning to her. She hesitated, and before her companions could help her she was beneath the wheels.

Proctor Boom is Urged As Basis For a Farce

The Goshen News-Times declares that George Ade's attention should be called to the candidacy of Senator R. E. Proctor for governor. That humorist, the Goshen paper opines, could make out of it something a great deal funnier than "The County Fair," a comedy, a pantomime of a "Chairman." It could be treated as a farce, a comedy, a pantomime of a bluff, or all four combined. As a vaudeville stunt it would be unsurpassed. While the play is not played out to its end, says the News-Times, it has gone far enough to reveal a wealth of stage material. In the hope of attracting the attention of some playwright capable of doing the subject justice, the following synopsis is submitted by the Goshen editor.

Act 1. Scene 1.—Curtain rises rapidly to music of "We'll Never Miss the Water When the Well Runs Dry." Discovered, in Center of Stage, Thomas Marshall, seated on his knee, R. E. Proctor, disguised as Little Lord Frontleroy. Near them, an Incubator, one which is stenciled in large characters, "The Marshall Boom." In incubator, nothing. On left, Leaders of Party—Crawford Fairbanks, Steve Fleming and Tom Taggart, disguised as wet nurses and carrying knives. On right, Partisan Press, alias Various Democratic Newspapers, working on Chinese puzzle labelled "How Old is Bob?" Gubernatorial nomination is represented by Moon to which Marshall points, promising it to Proctor. Leaders of party drink to party success and parcel out state officers. Taggart slips over and ties string to gubernatorial nomination. Partisan Press divides box of hammers and a few corkscrews.

Scene 2.—Elkhart City, with Lincoln county in background. Enter,

THEY INJURE CHILDREN

Cathartics and Pills and Harsh
Physics May Cause Distressing Complaints.

You cannot be over-careful in the selection of medicine for children. Only the very gentlest bowel medicine should ever be given. Ordinary pills, cathartics, and purgatives are too apt to do more harm than good. They sometimes cause griping, nausea, and distressing after-effects, and may actually injure the health, thus establishing a life-lasting annoyance.

We personally recommend and guarantee Rexall Orderlies as a safe and dependable remedy for constipation and associate bowel disorders. We have such faith in the virtues of this remedy that we sell it on our guarantee of money back in every instance where it fails to give entire satisfaction, and we urge all in need of such medicine to try it at our risk.

Rexall Orderlies are eaten just like candy, are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause diarrhoea, nausea, griping, excessive looseness, or other undesirable effects. They have a very mild but positive action upon the organs with which they come in contact, apparently acting as a regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat of the bowel, thus overcoming weakness, and aiding to restore the bowels to more vigorous and healthy activity.

Rexall Orderlies not only relieve constipation, but help to remove the cause of this ailment. They also frequently overcome the necessity of constantly taking laxatives to keep the bowels in normal condition.

There is really, in our opinion, no similar medicine so good as Rexall Orderlies for the purpose to which it is directed, especially for children, aged and delicate persons. They are prepared in tablet form and in two sizes of packages: 12 tablets, 10c.; 36 tablets, 25c., and 80 tablets, 50c. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store, Lytle's Drug Store, Corner Third and Main streets.

the band playing "See the Conquering Hero Comes," and Proctor, disguised as conquering hero. Hero advances to limelight in center of stage and announces candidacy, saying that his popular laws make further introduction necessary. Enter from right, Harry Arnold and a few friends who control Elkhart county. Elkhart county is represented by a pie, which they are about to divide and eat. Exit R. E. P., accompanied by band, leaving Boomlet behind. Boomlet, in form of three quart bottles, moves across stage. Enter from left, Partisan Press, with hammers and corkscrews. Curtain falls, but rising again. Boomlet is disclosed with drawn corks, and Partisan Press executing war dance about remains, singing:

"We'll dance and sing and sing and shout;
He's not of age—the secret's out.
Cut off in youth, alas, alack!
By corkscrews stabbed—and in the back!"

Act 11. Scene 1.—Discovered in limelight in center of stage, Proctor, disguised as John, the Baptist, thumbing through records. Constitution of state, torn through middle, lies on floor, Partisan Press on left, smiling and stirring with partisan pens, a pot, labeled "Recollections of Sacred Childhood." Proctor advances to footlights and delivers oration on "A Voice Crying in the Wilderness." Partisan Press indulges in a fit of sardonic laughter. Enter "marshduetai emfwypupn" a few friends and lead John the Baptist off stage. Curtain falls, but rising again. Moon, representing nomination, is seen slowly rising beyond reach of Proctor's outstretched arms, with Taggart holding string.

The pessimist jeers when he observes the rotund fruits and lavish flowers of the seed catalogue. These glowing hopes ignore the factor of insect pests and human idleness. The garden family has its black sheep and its drones, like the human race, so that the actual product looks like the gardens you raise over the evening lamp of February.

But far be it from us to say a word against the rainbow hopes incited by the seed catalogue. The most normal instinct of the human mind is the pleasure that comes from seeing things grow. It means outdoor life, lower living expenses, beautification of your home.

If you will talk with the seed catalogue man he will tell you that the promises offered by his literature are not to be had merely by sticking his seeds into the ground and leaving them to the dubious mercies of nature. Fine gardening used to be an art very vital to the old time home. In the long evenings one of the stock subjects of country neighbors was the exchange of information on gardening. Do our women of 1912, in the excitement of motors, bridge, moving picture shows and church fairs, ever stop to swap advice about why the lazy dahlias won't blossom? For the life of us, we can recall no such conversation exchanged among our female relatives and friends, who all claim to adore flowers.

*VALENTINE DAY IS NEAR AT HAND

Coming of Annual Occasion is Heralded by Window Displays—to Be Wednesday, Feb. 14.

ANOTHER POST CARD DELUGE

Valentine day, Wednesday, February 14, is called to mind by the show window displays that are already being made, although the event is two weeks in the future.

Valentine day is looked forward to by some as a day to notify their friends in an unusual or comic manner that they are still in the land of the living and to express sentiments for others that they would not dare express at any other time.

The mail carriers do not usually look upon Valentine day with any degree of pleasure, as it increases and adds to their work a great deal, especially since the post card craze has been inaugurated. Everybody sends everybody else post cards, comic or otherwise, until the mail carriers are loaded down. Consignments of these cards are being received now by some of the dealers.

ANDERSON WILKS' VALUE DECREASES

Famous Sire Who Established Many Records And Has Envious Record, Worth $50.

BELONGS TO AN ESTATE

Anderson Wilkes, a famous stallion and in his day a race horse of enviable speed, the sire of a number of horses that have established records, is valued at $50, according to a petition of Walter S. Commons, administrator of the estate of Laurence D. Commons, filed in circuit court, says the Richmond Item.

Horsemen in the United States have followed the career of the noted stallion with interest, and lately the Horseman, a Chicago journal, inquired here for information regarding the horse. The stallion is now twenty-seven years old, but is still rated a valuable asset to a stock farm.

The administrator of the estate of Laurence Commons, in his petition, requests permission to sell the horse along with other stock and property of the estate.

Our interests in Franklin county makes us lean toward our own distinguished citizen.

THAT JINNETT BOOM.

Columbus Republican: A boom has been started for the Rev. W. R. Jinnett of Manila, Rush county, as a candidate for the Republican nomination for representative from Rush county. The Rev. Mr. Jinnett was formerly pastor of the Central Christian church here. The boom for the minister was first spoken of on a train bringing a delegation of Rush county Republicans home from the Sixth district meeting at Cambridge City. Many of them spoke in favor of the minister and it is said he would not be adverse to accepting the nomination.

Anderson Township Man, Who Died Suddenly in Cincinnati, is Buried in Milroy Today.

HEART TROUBLE, THE CAUSE

The body of Clyde Toynes, formerly of Anderson township, who was found dead in his rooms in Cincinnati Saturday, was shipped to Milroy yesterday and the funeral services were held in the Milroy M. E. church this afternoon at two-thirty o'clock. Burial was made in the Milroy cemetery.

The death of the former Anderson township young man was believed to have been due to heart trouble. He was found lying across the bed, partially dressed, and it is supposed that he succumbed the attack while he was preparing to go to bed Friday night or early Saturday morning. He was nineteen years old and was associated with his brother in the manufacturing business. He was preparing to leave this morning for the West to sell goods. He was well known to Rushville retailers on whom he has called.

The deceased was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Toynes, both of whom are dead. He resided all of his life in Anderson township until two years ago when he engaged in business in Cincinnati. He is survived by two brothers, Ray of Anderson township, and Clem of Cincinnati, and one sister, Mrs. Hugh Sparks of Anderson township.

AMUSEMENTS

The Palace will have a feature picture tonight and tomorrow night. "Hands Across the Sea in '76," is said to be one of the best war pictures ever made and is very realistic. It is an Eclair film and tells the historical story in complete detail. The scene before Yorktown and the battlefield after the battle, with women moving quietly among the dead and the dying, ministering to the comfort of the surviving ones, is said to stand out by themselves as masterpieces of motion picture photography. Members of the G. A. R. and W. R. C. wearing badges will be admitted as guests of the management tonight.

The Princess offers the usual two pictures tonight. "A Perilous Ride" is an exciting western drama by the Lubin company. The other is a Pathe Weekly. On Wednesday and Thursday nights a benefit for the Rushville band will be given. The proceeds are for the upkeep of the organization. A concert will be given by the band both nights.

"Dan, the Lighthouse Keeper," is the subject of a thrilling sea coast story at the Portola tonight. "The other picture is a Lubin drama, "My Brother Agostine." "Cinderella," in three reels is booked for the near future.

The two big B's in the theatrical hive, Bates and Belasco, will be the attraction at English's opera house, Indianapolis, on Thursday, February 8th, where that wizard of stagecraft, David Belasco, presents his favorite star, Blanche Bates, in her latest triumph, "Nobody's Widow," by Avery Hopwood. In "Nobody's Widow" the word comedy has evidently been applied with true significance to its meaning and purpose, for rarely has a dramatic offering received such unanimous praise as rewarded this brilliantly written satire when introduced to New York this season. Blanche Bates as the widow has made one of the most pronounced hits of her career and the supporting company including Bruce McRae and others, has shared with her in the success. The very fact that David Belasco presents this attraction gives an assurance of its completeness in scenic investiture and fidelity to the most minute detail. For a good wholesome evening's enjoyment, don't miss Blanche Bates in "Nobody's Widow."

BENEFIT SHOW MADE $60

Emanon Club and Mrs. West Well Pleased With Result.

The benefit shows given at the Portola by the Emanon club and Mrs. West for Miss Curtis Lore netted $60. The young women are well pleased with the result. The Emanon club and Mrs. West desire to thank all who assisted in making the shows a success, especially the VanOsdel orchestra and the Misses Margery Thomas, Mary Louise Bliss and Mary Louise Poe.

"Know the truth, Raoul? Rld myself of that nightmare? But, my poor boy, I was not caught in the nightmare until the day when I learned the truth! . . . Pity me, Raoul, pity me! . . . You remember the terrible evening when Carlotta thought that she had been turned into a toad on the stage and the house was suddenly plunged in darkness through the chandelier crashing to the floor? There were killed and wounded that night and the whole theater rang with terrified screams. My first thought was for you and the voice. I was at once easy, where you were concerned, for I had seen you in your brother's box and I knew that you were not in danger. But the voice had told me that it would be at the performance and I was really afraid for it, just as if it had been an ordinary person who was capable of dying. I thought to myself, 'The chandelier may have come down upon the voice.' I was then on the stage and was nearly running into the house, to look for the voice among the killed and wounded, when I thought that, if the voice was safe, it would be sure to be in my dressing-room and I rushed to my room. The voice was not there. I looked my door and, with tears in my eyes, besought it, if it were still alive, to manifest itself to me. The voice did not reply, but suddenly I heard a long, beautiful wail which I knew well. It is the plaint of Lazarus, when, at the sound of the Redeemer's voice, he begins to open his eyes and see the light of day. It was the music which you and I, Raoul, heard at Perros. And then the voice began to sing the leading phrase, 'Come! And believe in me! Whoso believes in me shall live! Walk! Whoso hath believed in me shall never die! . . . I cannot tell you the effect which that music had upon me. It seemed to command me, personally, to come, to stand up and come to it. It retreated and I followed. 'Come! And believe in me!' I believed in it, I came. . . . I came and—this was the extraordinary thing—my dressing-room, as I moved, seemed to lengthen out to lengthen out. . . . Evidently, it must have been an effect of mirrors. . . . for I had the mirror in front of me. . . . And, suddenly, I was outside the room without knowing how!"

"What! Without knowing how? Christine, Christine, you must really stop dreaming!"

"I was not dreaming, dear, I was outside my room without knowing how. You, who saw me disappear from my room one evening, may be able to explain it; but I cannot. I can only tell you that, suddenly, there was no mirror before me and no dressing-room. I was in a dark passage, I was frightened and I cried out. It was quite dark, but for a faint red glimmer at a distant corner of the wall. I cried out. My voice was the only sound, for the singing and the violin had stopped. And, suddenly, a hand was laid on mine. . . . or rather a stone-cold, bony thing that seized my wrist and did not let go. I cried out again. An arm took me round the waist and supported me. I struggled for a little while and then I saw that I was in the hands of a man wrapped in a large cloak and wearing a mask that hid his whole face. I made one last effort; my limbs stiffened, my mouth opened to scream, but a hand closed it, a hand which I felt on my lips, on my skin. . . . a hand that smelt of death. Then I fainted away.

"When I opened my eyes, we were still surrounded by darkness. A lantern, standing on the ground, showed a bubbling well. The water splashing from the well disappeared, almost at

SICKLY CHILDREN

Made Strong and Rosy by Vinol—It Makes Them Eat.

Pale, sickly children usually have poor appetites. But you can get them to eating heartily in a few days by giving them Vinol, our delicious tonic, intestinespoofing doses. There is a book in every package that tells exactly what to do for such children.

"Seven years ago when my little girl was two years old," says Mrs. Carl Wittenberg of Brooklyn, "she was quite delicate and we gave her Vinol. It helped her so much that this spring when the doctor said she had weak lungs and needed blood, I knew Vinol would do her good again. I started her on it right away and it does her far more good than all the doctor's medicines. I feel like we are putting new life into our little girl when we give her Vinol."

Children like to take Vinol for the taste is pleasant, and we guarantee that Vinol will build them up and make them strong—if it does not, we give back your money. F. B. Johnson & Co., Druggists, Rushville, Ind.

once, under the floor on which I was lying, with my head on the knee of the man in the black cloak and the black mask. He was bathing my temples and his hands smelt of death. I tried to push them away and asked, 'Who are you? Where is the voice?' His only answer was a sigh. Suddenly, a hot breath passed over my face and I perceived a white shape, beside the man's black shape, in the darkness. The black shape lifted me on to the white shape, a glad neighing greeted my astounded ears and I murmured, 'Cesar!' The animal quivered. Raoul, I was lying half back on a saddle and I had recognized the white horse out of the Profeta, which I had so often fed with sugar and sweets. I remembered that, one evening, there was a rumor in the theater that the horse had disappeared and that it had been stolen by the opera ghost. I believed in the voice, but had never believed in the ghost. Now, however, I began to wonder, with a shiver, whether I was the ghost's prisoner. I called upon the voice to help me, for I should never have imagined that the voice and the ghost were one. You have heard about the opera ghost, have you not, Raoul?"

"Yes, but tell me what happened when you were on the white horse of the Profeta?"

"I made no movement and let myself go. The black shape held me up, and I made no effort to escape. A curious feeling of peacefulness came over me and I thought that I must be under the influence of some cordial. I had the full command of my senses; and my eyes became used to the darkness, which was lit, here and there, by fitful gleams. I calculated that we were in a narrow circular gallery, probably running all round the opera, which is immense, underground. I had once been down into those cellars, but had stopped at the third floor, though there were two lower still, large enough to hold a town. But the figures of which I caught sight had made me run away. There are demons down there, quite black, standing in front of boilers, and they wield shovels and pitchforks and poke up fires and stir up flames and, if you come too near them, they frighten you by suddenly opening the red mouths of their furnaces. . . . Well, while Cesar was quietly carrying me on his back, I saw those black demons in the distance, looking quite small, in front of the red fires of their furnaces; they came into sight, disappeared and came into sight again, as we went on our winding way. At last, they disappeared altogether. The shape was still holding me up and Cesar walked on, unled and sure-footed. I could not tell you, even approximately, how long this ride lasted; I only know that we seemed to turn and turn and often went down a spiral stair into the very heart of the earth. Even then, it may be that my head was turning, but I don't think so; no, my mind was quite clear. At last, Cesar raised his nostrils, sniffed the air and quickened his pace a little. I felt a moistness in the air and Cesar stopped. The darkness had lifted. A sort of blue light surrounded us. We were on the edge of a lake, whose leaden waters stretched into the distance, into the darkness; but the blue light lit up the bank and I saw a little boat fastened to an iron ring on the wharf!"

"Yes, but I knew that all that existed and that there was nothing supernatural about that underground lake and boat. But think of the exceptional conditions in which I arrived upon that shore! I don't know whether the effects of the cordial had worn off when the man's shape lifted me into the boat, but my terror began all over again. My gruesome escort must have noticed it, for he sent Cesar back and I heard his hoofs trampling up a staircase while the man jumped into the boat, untied the rope that held it and seized the oars. He rowed with a quick, powerful stroke; and his eyes, under the mask, never left me. We slipped across the noiseless water in the blue light which I told you of; then we were in the dark again and we touched shore. And I was once more taken up in the man's arms. I cried aloud. And then, suddenly, I was silent, dazed by the light. . . . Yes, a dazzling light in the midst of which I had been put down. I sprang to my feet. I was in the middle of a drawing-room that seemed to me to be decorated, adorned and furnished with nothing but flowers, flowers both magnificent and stupid, because of the silk ribbons that tied them to baskets, like those which they sell in the shops on the boulevards. They were much too civilized flowers, like those which I used to find in my dressing-room after a first night. And, in the midst of all these flowers, stood the black shape of the man in the mask, with arms crossed, and he said: 'Don't be afraid, Christine; you are in no danger.' It was the voice!"

"My anger equalled my amazement. I rushed at the mask and tried to snatch it away, so as to see the face of the voice. The man said, 'You are in no danger, so long as you do not touch the mask.' And, taking me gently by the wrists, he forced me into a chair and then went down on his knees before me and said nothing more! His humility gave me back some of my courage, and the light restored me to the realities of life. However extraordinary the adventure might be, I was now surrounded by mortal, visible, tangible things. The furniture, the hangings, the candles, the vases and the very flowers in their baskets, of which I could almost have told whence they came and what they cost, were bound to confine my imagination to the limits of a drawing-room quite as commonplace as any that, at least, had the excuse of not being in the cellars of the opera. I had, no doubt, to do with a terrible, eccentric person, who, in some mysterious fashion, had succeeded in taking up his abode there, under the opera house, five stories below the level of the ground. And the voice, the voice which I had recognized under the mask, was on its knees before me, was a man! And I began to cry. . . . The man, still kneeling, must have understood the cause of my tears, for he said, 'It is true, Christine! . . . I am not an angel, nor a genius, nor a ghost. . . . I am Erik!'"

Christine's narrative was again interrupted. An echo behind them seemed to repeat the word after her. "Erik!"

What echo? . . . They both turned round and saw that night had fallen. Raoul made a movement as though to rise, but Christine kept him beside her.

"Don't go," she said. "I want you to know everything here!"

"But why here, Christine? I am afraid of your catching cold."

"We have nothing to fear except the trap-doors, dear, and here we are miles away from the trap-doors. . . . and I am not allowed to see you outside the theater. This is not the time to annoy him. We must not arouse his suspicion."

"Christine! Christine! Something tells me that we are wrong to wait till tomorrow evening and that we ought to fly at once."

"I tell you that, if he does not hear me sing tomorrow, it will cause him infinite pain."

"It is difficult not to cause him pain and yet to escape from him for good." "You are right in that, Raoul, for certainly he will die of my flight." And she added in a dull voice, "But then it counts both ways. . . . for we risk his killing us."

"Does he love you so much?"

"He would commit murder for me." "But one can find out where he lives. One can go in search of him. Now that we know that Erik is not a ghost, one can speak to him and force him to answer!"

Christine shook her head.

"No, no! There is nothing to be done with Erik. . . . except to run away!"

"Then why, when you were able to run away, did you go back to him?"

"Because I had to. And you will understand that when I tell you how I left him."

"Oh, I hate him!" cried Raoul. "And you, Christine, tell me, do you hate him too?"

"No," said Christine simply. "No, of course not. . . . Why, you love him! Your fear, your terror, all of that is just love and love of the most exquisite kind, the kind which people do not admit even to themselves," said Raoul bitterly. "The kind that gives you a thrill, when you think of it. . . . Picture it: a man who lives in a palace underground!"

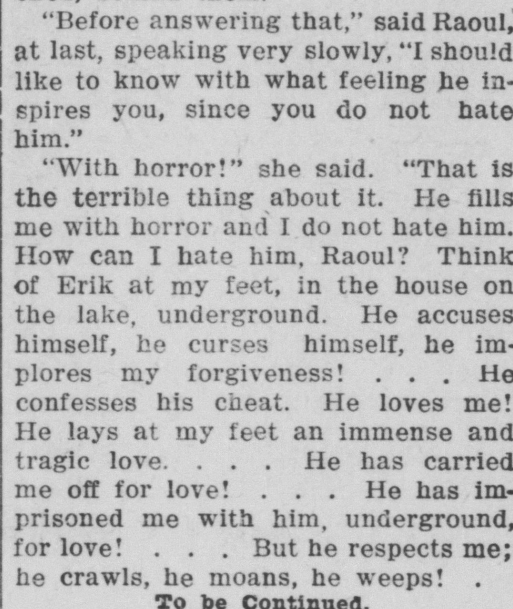

And he gave a leer.

"Then you want me to go back there?" said the young girl cruelly. "Take care, Raoul; I have told you: I should never return!"

There was an appalling silence between the three of them; the two who spoke and the shadow that listened, behind them.

"Before answering that," said Raoul, at last, speaking very slowly, "I should like to know with what feeling he inspires you, since you do not hate him."

"With horror!" she said. "That is the terrible thing about it. He fills me with horror and I do not hate him. How can I hate him, Raoul? Think of Erik at my feet, in the house on the lake, underground. He accuses himself, he curses himself, he implores my forgiveness! . . . He confesses his cheat. He loves me! He lays at my feet an immense and tragic love. . . . He has carried me off for love! . . . He has imprisoned me with him, underground, for love! . . . But he respects me; he crawls, he moans, he weeps! . . . To be Continued."

PAPER BAG COOKING

Great System Perfected by M. Soyer, Famous London Chef.

BOON TO THE SLENDER PURSE.

By Martha McCulloch Williams. It is as true as it is piteous that "the poor is destroyed by his poverty." Strength and competence, the high roads of escape from poverty, depend primarily on health, which in turn depends so much upon food. For these many, many years it has been patent that many of our fellow creatures have been handicapped in the race of life by improper food or the improper preparation of cheap food that would be health-giving in ample quantity if prepared properly for the palate.

There is opening now an avenue of possible escape. I mean the paper bag. By its help, the cheap cuts which alone are within the compass of slender purses, may be cooked in such fashion as to yield the last grain of nourishment they contain, and be bettered in the process. Further, they will sauce and season much other cheap food-stuff, thereby doubling or trebling its dietetic value.

This can be accomplished through the medium of stews.

Meat for stewing may be bought at the lowest current prices—flank, neck scrag, shank—it is all the same to the bag. Have a care in cutting it up, that no sharp bones are left projecting. Wash clean, but very quickly, after cutting up, dry with a damp cloth—which is not paradoxical though it sounds so—season lightly with salt and pepper and let lie for an hour in a cool place. Wash the vegetables carefully, cut them up, and put in cold water.

Grease a roomy bag very well—a stew of all things needs not to be skimmed in space. Put a thick layer of the mixed vegetables, dripping wet, at the bottom of it, on that a layer of meat, then more vegetables, the rest of the meat, then the last of the vegetables, thrusting in among them a good lump of fat, either drippings, butter or lard, that has been rolled in flour. Pour in a tablespoonful of water for each pound of meat, fold the bag, clip it extra securely, put in a hot oven, after ten minutes reduce the heat one-half, and cook from two to three hours, depending on the bulk. Take up in a deep dish, stir well, taste, add more salt and pepper if needed, and serve very hot.

The proportion of vegetables to meat may be three to one, or even four to one, if there is plenty of extra fat.

Stew Without Meat.—Try out two ounces of suet, taking care not to scorch the tissue, but to get it brown, put in enough toasted bread crumbs to absorb the fat entirely, stir them well about, sprinkle with salt and pepper, then put in a bag in layers with sliced tomatoes, sliced carrots, white potatoes cut as for frying, onions sliced and soaked half an hour in salt water, also pieces of tart apple—peeled of course. Season each layer lightly as you put it in, remembering always that salt and pepper can be added, but can not be taken away. Add bits of butter also if you want the stew very rich. Add at the very last half a gill of stock, or milk and water, seal bag tight, put in a hot oven, slack heat after five minutes, and cook for three-quarters of an hour.

FOR LATE SUPPERS.

By Nicolas Soyer, Chef of Brooks' Club, London.

Dried Herrings with Fine Herbs.—Few people know how very nice smoked and dried fish can be when cooked in a paper bag and seasoned in the French fashion. Take four dried herrings, bone them, fill the cavities with a little (about half a teaspoonful to each fish) finely minced shallot, or chives, and parsley. Add a few fresh breadcrumbs and tiny bits of butter. If liked, a tiny grate of nutmeg may be added as well as a good dust of pepper. Put into a well greased bag and bake in the oven for ten minutes. Dish up and serve as hot as possible. Other dried fish are excellent prepared in the same way.

Riz Aux Crevettes.—Take four ounces of boiled rice, add to it pepper and salt to taste, a lump of butter about the size of a big Brazil nut, and two dessertspoonfuls of finely grated cheese. Put this mixture in a well greased bag and make very hot for six minutes. Then open the bag and stir in gently a few flaked shrimps. Mix in lightly with a fork. Replace the bag on the broiler, make hot for another three minutes, then dish up and serve.

Jambon Milanaise.—Take six slices of either raw ham or breakfast bacon, machine cut if possible, take also half a pint of cold boiled peas, and if to hand, half a dozen cold boiled new potatoes. Put the slices into a bag and cook them, then take out, and add the peas and the potatoes, the latter first thinly sliced, and cook in the ham fat until very hot. Empty on to a hot dish and pour over the peas half a pint of very hot well-seasoned tomato pulp or tomato catsup, whichever is preferred. The peas and potatoes should be arranged as a border with the slices in the middle. When they can be had, half a dozen chicken livers greatly improve this dish.

Folks Past Fifty Must Use Cascarets

What Glasses Are to Weak Eyes, Cascarets Are to Weak Bowels
—A Ten Cent Box Will Amaze You.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles. So all old need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash cannot be used every day. What the bowels need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. Then only such tonic is Cascarets and they are only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

MAKES DEMAND FOR NEW TRIAL

Defense in Snoddy Case Not Content With Verdict.

NOW ASKS FOR A REHEARING

It is Charged in the Motion That the Court Erred in Particulars That Are Set Out by Defense—Sensational Turn in the Case Comes When Witness in Behalf of Tobe Snoddy is Charged With False Swearing.

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 5.—In the Silas Adams whitecapping trial the state has rested its case and the defense began its evidence today.

The state swore out an affidavit against Gus Latimer, who testified at the Tobe Snoddy trial. Latimer was haled into court, charged with perjury and compelled to give a $500 bond. The state makes the allegation that all of Latimer's testimony before the Snoddy jury was false.

Tobe Snoddy's attorneys presented their formal motion for a new trial for Snoddy, which was overruled by Judge Wilson. Snoddy was asked if he had any reason to give why he should not be sentenced, and he replied:

"Nothing more than that I am not guilty and never had been."

The court then gave Snoddy the indeterminate sentence of from two to ten years and fined him $1. Snoddy's attorneys filed their formal motion and written reasons for a new trial, alleging that the court erred in overruling the defendant's motion and application for continuance and in refusing to give to the jury certain instructions as requested by the defendant. Following this procedure, Snoddy filed a $3,000 bond, which was approved by Judge Wilson. The bond is signed principally by men who reside in Salt Creek township, in the neighborhood where the whitecapping took place. After the bond had been approved, Snoddy was released from jail and will have his freedom until his case is acted upon by the supreme court.

LEGAL HOLIDAY

Attorney General's Opinion Regarding Lincoln's Birthday.

Indianapolis, Feb. 5.—Attorney General Honan almost daily is receiving inquiries concerning the status of the legal holiday laws in Indiana. Several times he has prepared opinions on the question, holding in all cases that the act of 1911 did not invalidate a former act, which had declared Lincoln's birthday to be a legal holiday. The act of 1911 sought to amend an act of 1905, in which Lincoln's birthday was omitted, and Discovery day, Oct. 12, was added to the list. An act of 1907 already had amended the act of 1905, adding Lincoln's birthday to the list of holidays. Mr. Honan has received many letters in the past few days, inquiring as to the validity of the latter holiday. The legislature of 1913 will have to straighten out the tangle, the official said. As the law has been interpreted Discovery day is not a legal holiday now, but Lincoln's birthday is such.

SEVERAL NEW LAWS

Will Be Urged by the Indiana Board of State Charities.

Indianapolis, Feb. 5.—Complete state care of the insane, a state orphanage to receive all dependent and neglected children, who are public wards, a solution of the county jail question and of the treatment of short-term prisoners through workhouses under charge of the state, and additional provision for fighting consumption are the things which the board of state charities will ask the 1913 legislature to provide. The forthcoming report of the board, besides recommending those four principal bases for legislation, will ask the general assembly to pass many other laws in the interests of the dependents and inmates of Indiana penal institutions.

A Fruitless "Fox Drive."

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 5.—More than 1,000 Tippecanoe county farmers participated in a big fox and deer drive on the Wea Plains and not less than fifteen foxes were sighted at one time or another inside the big circle, but all got away. A deer which has been roaming the plains for several weeks was chased for several miles and was within a mile of the roundup when he leaped away to the westward and escaped.

In a Critical Condition.

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 5.—J. C. Edgeworth, one of the best known railroad men in Indiana, and for many years in charge of the Vandalla's interests in South Bend, has been stricken with apoplexy and is in a critical condition. Little hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Suicide of Octogenarian.

Elwood, Ind., Feb. 5.—William Bailey, aged eighty, one of the pioneers of Elwood, ended his life by drinking half a pint of a poisonous drug. He is survived by a widow and thirty-seven grandchildren. Ill health caused the act.

THE GEORGIA NOTION OF A SUNDAY HURRAH

Macon Mob Wreaks Double Vengeance On Negro.

Macon, Ga., Feb. 5.—For criminal assault on a white girl, Charles Powell, a negro, was lynched here at 4 o'clock Sunday morning. The negro's body was later burned by a mob. About 1 o'clock in the afternoon the body of the negro was taken from an undertaking establishment where it had been placed, and was carried to a field in South Macon, in the midst of a populous negro settlement, and cremated. The body was placed in a wagon, which was followed through the streets for over a mile by a crowd of over 500 men and boys, who shouted: "Save the county money," and "Teach the niggers a lesson." The sidewalks were lined with men and women returning from church as the procession passed with the negro's corpse.

The officers, led by Chief Chapman, arrived at the place after the negro's body was blazing. They did not interfere with the burning of the body nor make any arrests. Before the flames died down the field was thronged with people, all white, who applauded and laughed at the sickening spectacle.

The negroes in the vicinity locked themselves in their homes. There is a veritable reign of terror among the negroes, who fear they will be attacked by the whites.

UNSOLVED

The Mystery of Grace Walker's Death Puzzles New York Police.

New York, Feb. 5.—Though Deputy Commissioner Dougherty argues that C. M. Dickinson, the young stenographer who is under arrest on suspicion that he killed Grace Walker with a bomb in her apartment on Saturday, had a motive for carrying an iron pipe packed with dynamite to the woman, and though the commissioner guardedly said he thought the right man had been jailed, other policemen who actively worked at the puzzle swerved to the belief that a great deal more would have to be found out before Dickinson could seriously be accused of murder.

It Aroused His Ire.

Monticello, Ky., Feb. 5.—John E. Worley was shot and killed and his nephew, Carter Worley, was fatally wounded on the streets here. Dr. John Clark and his son, James Clark, have been arrested, charged with doing the shooting. It was said Clark became incensed when he learned his daughters were acquainted with the Worleys. Both families are well known.

It Failed to Work.

Paris, Feb. 5.—Francois Reichelt, aged thirty-three, a ladies' tailor, was instantly killed when a parachute which he had invented failed to work as he jumped from a stage off the Eiffel tower nearly 200 feet from the ground. Reichelt had been working two years on his invention, which he intended for use by aviators.

ANCIENT THRONE GIVES UP POWER

China's Rulers Are Now Ready to Step Down.

THE REPUBLIC IS RECOGNIZED

Dowager Empress Issues an Edict on Behalf of the Baby Emperor Directing Yuan to Take a Hand With the Republicans at Nanking in the Movement Toward Establishing a Republic in the Middle Kingdom.

Peking, Feb. 5.—In behalf of Emperor Pu Yi, the dowager empress has signed an edict directing Premier Yuan Shih Kai to co-operate with the republicans at Nanking in establishing a Chinese republic. No mention is made specifically of the abdication of the throne, but it is obvious that the surrender of power is equivalent to such action. The edict has not yet been published, and it probably will be withheld until the result of Yuan's negotiations with the Nanking republicans is known. These apparently aim at inducing the Nanking republicans to surrender control of China to Premier Yuan pending the decision of the national convention as to the future form of government and the appointment of the officials of the republic. Well informed people here don't believe the Nanking government will agree to this and expect the result will be the formation of two provisional governments, one for the north and another for the south. Nevertheless, the prospects for a settlement of the trouble are regarded as very hopeful.

It is stated that Yuan Shih Kai stands well with the republicans, who have again offered him the presidency of the republic to succeed Dr. Sun.

Many of the Manchu princes are already quitting Peking. Prince Su Kung has gone to Manchuria apparently to ascertain the local feeling there. The viceroy, Chang Ehr Hsuan, is stated to be willing to accept a republic, but the military commander, an ex-brigadier and his 12,000 troops are irreconcilable.

FIRE AT SEA

Two Crews Put in at Norfolk After Terrible Experiences.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 5.—Blinded by fire and smoke, their feet and hands sore, and their faces as red as beets, twenty-six men composing the crew of the British steamer Consul, which went down forty miles south of Cape Henry at 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning after burning for fifty hours, reached Norfolk last night and enjoyed their first real meal in three days at the Victoria hotel as the guest of the British vice consul at this port. Captain H. Jones was commanding the Consul. The men were landed in Newport News by the British steamer Castle Eden, which took the Consul in tow Saturday and brought her from where she was discovered on fire, but lost her at 10 o'clock that night when the towing hawser parted.

The crew fought the flames from the time they were discovered until 2:30 o'clock Saturday morning, when they were forced to take to the lifeboats. The decks gave way under the men while they were fighting the fire. Two of the four lifeboats were burned and one of the boats into which the men made their escape from the burning ship was ablaze when it was lowered from the davits.

Six men in a small boat were picked up early Sunday fifty miles south of Frying Pan shoals by the steamer Swanee of the Merchants and Miners line. Two of the men were unconscious and the remaining four were so completely exhausted from exposure that they could hardly talk when hauled on board the big liner. The men said that they composed the crew of the schooner Frank S. Low, which caught fire early Friday morning and sank within ten miles of where they were picked up. The Low was loaded with coal and was bound to Jacksonville from Norfolk. She caught fire Friday morning and the six men fought the flames for ten hours. The ship, however, soon became a seething furnace and the men were forced to take to the lifeboats. They drifted around helplessly for thirty hours without food, water or sufficient clothing, and when found were almost dead.

Fire Plugs Frozen.

Philadelphia, Feb. 5.—Fire swept through two buildings owned by Hensel, Colladay & Co., at the northwest corner of Franklin and Vine streets, completely ruining the structures and causing a loss to the four firms that occupied them, of more than $1,100,000. The firemen were helpless to save the burning buildings. Fire plugs froze, ice formed in lines of hose and stopped the flow of water, and the high pressure service was not of any use.

Edible Petroleum the Latest.

Pittsburg, Feb. 5.—A new source of food supply has been discovered, it is declared, by scientists of the University of Pittsburg. The commodity under the scrutiny of the savants is crude petroleum, and the experts assert that they have already found that there are properties in this product that have nutritious edible qualities.

of the price they are costing us—not in dollars and cents, but the physical cost. It is costing the use of our feet. We pride ourselves in the comfortable chairs, but we use them more as a bed. The Japanese have no backs to their chairs and in this they are higher in civilization. The backs of our chairs are costing us our backbones."

Continuing, the Rev. Mr. Powell said: "One of the things the Holy Grail advocates is camping. Camp life teaches the boy to cook, make the beds, and do for himself in general. While this is of special interest to the boys it is also for the girls, because you will eventually get one of them and it will enable you to obtain a better one."

The mind side of the triangle was termed mental gymnastics. The best training of the mind, according to the speaker, was a debate or a senate of a church or club. In a debate the mind must think clearly and be ready for anything. It is a development along proper thinking and thought. "At Centerville, Ind.," said Mr. Powell, "there was one group of boys who gathered in debate. At each meeting all lights were turned out so as to prevent referring to notes. This group of boys became known as the 'dark lyceum.' Out of this group there came one man, who was a governor, a senator and vice-president. The proper training of the mind tends towards Christianity."

In applying the spirit side of the triangle to human life, Dr. Powell said: "If a young man is allowed to go until he is twenty-one years of age without accepting Christ the chances are ten to one he never will. At forty years of age the chances are one thousand to one he never will. Eighty out of every one hundred boys and girls accept Christ before they are twenty-one years old. The work of the Grail is to reach him and give him the proper training. One of the things of the Holy Grail is to take the Y. M. C. A. and bring it back to the church. The reason it is not back in the church is because some have been standpatters and would not open up the doors of the church. It is much cheaper to give a boy to the devil than to keep him in the church."

The Rev. Mr. Powell closed by stating that he believed there was a field here in Rushville for a chapter of the Knights of the Holy Grail and hoped that one would be established.

A NEW SCHEME IN THE FORGERY GAME

Stranger Rents Rig to Drive to Farmer's Home; Gives Check on Him to Liveryman

JOHN HINER RETURNS $8.50

A new scheme in the forgery game has been evolved, as is revealed by the neat manner in which a stranger defrauded John Hiner, the liveryman, out of $8.50 last Thursday, the fact that it was a forgery not coming to light until today.

A well dressed stranger, who appeared to be a traveling salesman, appeared at the Hiner barn Thursday and asked to rent a rig to drive to J. M. Amos' farm south of the city. He returned in two hours and presented a check for ten dollars in payment for the rig hire. The check was made payable to Hugh E. Miller and was signed by J. M. Amos. Mr. Hiner presumed the check was good since the man had rented the rig to drive to Amos' home. He took out $1.50 for the hire and gave him $8.50 in cash. Saturday evening Mr. Hiner deposited the check in the Peoples national bank, and when it was presented at the Rushville national bank today, Mr. Amos denied he had ever given such a check and proved that it was not his signature. The man endorsed the check in the presence of Mr. Hiner. There is a great similarity in all of the handwriting.

The two men had not seen each other for thirty-six years, and a week ago the Kansas man came here on a visit. He remained all week and started home Saturday evening.

LET BOY DON HIS
LAVENDER SOCK

under 21 years of age. Eighty per cent of the men between 18 and 30 years are diseased on account of licentiousness. Who is your daughter going to marry? How do you know after she is married that she may not have to submit to operations, be in poor health and die an invalid? Between fifty and seventy per cent of the men are guilty of immoral practices.

"It is the parents' and teachers' problem. They should know their boys. I have been a teacher for 25 years of my life and I feel that I know boys pretty well. I want my boys to enlarge physically, mentally, socially and spiritually. How are you going to teach and develop the spiritual side? College professors say the great bulk of college students are absolutely ignorant on spiritual matters.

"A boy is not a little man. You must get down on his plane and talk to him; make him understand in his own language. He comes into life and is nothing more than a rolly polly baby. He is really a little animal, a savage then. Have you ever noticed the bond of sympathy which exists between a small boy and a dog? A boy can manage a dog much better than its own master if he be a man. When he comes to the chivalrous age, he wants a chum, and if his father is the right kind of a man, he will be one to him and will lead him to Jesus Christ. He then grows into manhood and chooses a leader.

"Ninety-nine per cent of the boys want to be good, and the reason they are not is because they are never approached right. They are mishandled and misjudged. If you want to help your boy you must line up on his side. There is no middle ground; you can't win him to your way of thinking. The high tide of a boy's life and I think statistics will bear me out, is sixteen years of age, when he takes the step and decides which life he shall lead."

Mr. Clark declared there are five periods in a boy's life, and the first is from infancy to ten years of age. It is then that he forms habits, the speaker said, is imaginative and is taught by example rather than by preaching. In this period, Mr. Clark said, the boy's faith is strong and he should never be deceived, else his whole life may be ruined. Mr. Clark urged all parents to be honest and square with their boys.

In the next period, from ten to twelve years, the boy is clammy and wants to be with the bunch, the speaker asserted, and he finds the usefulness of his muscles and his bodily functions. Mr. Clark said the boy at this age begins to be constructive as well as destructive, and he suggested that parents make it plain to their son that his home is the rendezvous for the gang. The tribe instinct is strong in this period of the boy's growth, Mr. Clark declared, and he generally has a chief to whom he looks for leadership.

The next age, termed the adolescent period, is when the boy is a great hero worshiper; he is shrewd and is a schemer, and desires to achieve things. At this time he is chivalrous and Mr. Clark wondered how many fathers are heroes to their sons at this time when they should be. Does he excel and is dad in touch with his boy, asked the speaker? He said the girl idea enters his head at this period of his life and if he has been reared right, he will not admire the girl who does not measure up favorably with his mother. He declared the sister has a strong part in shaping the boy's course at this time.

The middle adolescent age, from sixteen to eighteen years, is the crux of the boy's life, was the declaration of Dr. Clark. It is then that he searches himself, said Dr. Clark, and asserted his individualism, by rolling up his trousers, wearing clothes a trifle different than the other boys, and dons lavender socks. Mr. Clark urged parents to let him have his way because he will get over it and will be better for it. At this time he looks up to great heroes and continues to admire leaders in the field of sport. Mr. Clark said it was imperative that father keeps up on sports, whether or not he be interested, so he may converse intelligently with his boy. He said the boy should not be antagonized and found fault with. He said the boy might be weaned away from the home but that he would gradually come back to it and begin to appreciate it. He may not voice his appreciation, Mr. Clark said, but he will feel its influences, and then his thoughts will turn to the girl he is to choose and the home which he is to make himself.

From eighteen years on is the co-operative age, Mr. Clark said, when he comes to realize there are others on earth beside himself. The co-operative spirit is revealed in fraternities in college life, Mr. Clark asserted, and he deplored that they sometimes enter into his life in the high school. It is now that the boy chooses an avocation, Mr. Clark said, and decides whether his life shall be for worldly gain and success or whether its motive shall be altruistic.

"If the influence of the family worship and the recognition of God is thrown about the boy," continued the speaker, "his future life is pretty well determined, although not finally so. It is in the sex problem that the mother can do so much for the boy in his youth. The stork story and the Santa Claus myths are all right, but are you going to tell your boy or are you going to let him hear it in a filthy story down on the street corner? Give him the proper conception when he can understand. His father may warn him of the problems he has to face in life and can probably save him from many an evil. God grant that we get away from this false modesty and get next to our boys. Father can be best in his line if he studies hard enough and he can be the father of the best boy in town if he will study him hard enough."

HE IS AT POSEY STOCK FARM

Ess H. Kay, 2:00 3/4, the fastest trotting stallion ever standing in Indiana, is now at home in Rushville. He may be inspected by admirers of fast horse flesh at the Posey stock farm, where he is in charge of Dagler Brothers. The stallion arrived here Saturday from New York State and will be here in the stud during the season.

The exodus of the famous stallion from his stable in New York was heralded by sporting writers as a calamity and Indiana was complimented on the acquiring of the stallion. The horse is expected to make even a more wonderful performance on the track the coming season. He took "Pop" Gears, the veteran driver, the fastest mile he ever rode behind a horse.

Dagler's have the fastest trotting stallion ever in Rush county in their stable now. Admiral Red, who was added to their string last season, has a mark of 2:09 1/4 and is a fine animal.
